1 2 culture and identity in a postmodern world michel foucault s statement that the present epoch will perhaps be above all the epoch of space we are in the epoch of simultaneity we are in the epoch of juxtaposition m foucault 1986 22 heralded a new approach to identity in the contemporary world by suggesting that one s identity is formed not as a result of the cultural and national values and history one has inherited but rather as a result of the different spaces through which one travels in other words one s identity is no longer perceived as an inherited construct but rather as something flexible that changes as one moves through the more fluid spaces of the contemporary globalized world and internalizes a mixture of the different cultures and ideas that one encounters the idealized contemporary traveller will thus effortlessly cross national and cultural borders and negotiate a constantly changing and flexible identity for himself andy bennett argues that it is no longer even possible to conceive of identity as a static entity forged from a communal history and value system because all of the traditional certainties on which identity formation were based in the past have been fatally undermined by a postmodernist flux and fluidity once clearly demarcated by relatively static and ethnically homogenous communities the spaces and places of everyday life are now highly pluralistic and contested and are constantly being defined and redefined through processes of relocation and cultural hybridisation a postmodernism in pieces performs a postmortem on what is perhaps the most contested paradigm in literary studies in the wake of a critical consensus proclaiming its death matthew mullins breaks postmodernism down into its most fundamental orthodoxies and reassembles it piece by piece in light of recent theoretical developments in actor network theory object oriented philosophy new materialism and posthumanism in the last two decades postmodernism has collapsed under the weight of the very phenomena it set out to deconstruct language whiteness masculinity class the academy recasting these categories
