excerpt from power boat hand book the average beginner or the new boat owner usually has many doubts and fears as to his ability to operate and navigate his first power boat when confronted with the many rules regulations and requirements of boating he often thinks the game is more than he bargained for and unless he is or has been a boat and water lover from boyhood days he is apt to join the rocking chair fleet of the near by club and watch his newly acquired ship swinging at anchor on the other hand the real boat and water lover starts in no matter what comes and the outcome usually is a mastery of the first rules and men are not made in a day in fact some are never made possibly because they start in where the good boatmen leave off that old proverb tools rush in where angels fear to tread should be styled fools sail where boatmen quail to answer a question that is often put to many boat operators by a prospective beginner what should i know to properly run my own boat the first answer should always be horse sense and its general use most anyone has at some time or another driven a horse usually with a great deal of pleasure to himself and not much harm to the horse if the new boat driver would use the same amount of care with his new boat as he did or would with the horse it would be easy sailing for everyone but he wont so here goes the beginner should not attempt to start in with anything larger than the average 30 footer about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
